MARIUS ADOMNICA

Marius grew up in Vancouver and obtained his J.D. from the University of British Columbia, graduating with the Business Law Concentration and winning the Stuart Clyne Prize in Labour Law. He was called to the bar in B.C. in 2012.

His practice focuses on general corporate and commercial work and technology law, with an emphasis on advising start-ups and emerging technology companies. Marius also has experience in commercial litigation and business immigration matters, and is able to provide his clients with advice on a wide range of issues, including commercial transactions, regulatory matters, and commercial disputes

ERIC STEIN

Mr. Stein is a 20+ year practicing attorney with extensive construction, real estate and business law experience. Mr. Stein was previously General Counsel for the Ute Mountain Ute Tribe in Southwest Colorado for 7 years, and was heavily involved in all aspects of the Tribe's successful construction company, including negotiating federal contracts for large- scale public works projects such as dams, roads, and bridges, as well as construction of the Tribe's casino. An important part of this work involved lobbying efforts at Federal, state and local government levels as well as coordination with other Federally recognized tribes in Colorado. During his tenure at the Tribe, he also worked on environmental compliance matters, oil and gas development and coal extraction agreements.

Mr. Stein then served as Assistant General Counsel for Vail Resort, Inc. (NYSE: MTN), where he was heavily involved with the Company's real estate division, both on the owner/developer side and in commercial leasing. This work involved procuring construction "wrap" insurance programs from RFP to executive approval and implementation (including drug testing programs). In addition, Eric was central to the successful resolution of a multi- million dollar construction defect claim at Vail Mountain's signature on mountain restaurant, Two Elk Lodge.

Eric was then recruited by Intrawest to be its Vice President of Risk Management and Insurance, and moved to Vancouver in 2007. While with Intrawest, Mr. Stein developed and implemented a company-wide workplace safety initiative driving down premiums and claims, managed defense of 5 construction defect class action matters and oversaw insurance procurement.

Just prior to joining Segev LLP, Eric worked with the in-house legal team at Ledcor. Imbedded with their telecommunications division, he implemented a contract review and approval process which ensured comprehensive risk management analysis was completed for each project. While with Ledcor, Eric championed an effort to protect Ledcor from financial and project execution risks related to builder's liens, both contractually and by establishing strong documentation requirements for both A/R and A/P functions within the finance department.
